

The Asphalt Paving Laydown Technician Certificates of Apprenticeship and Certificates of Qualification from January 1, 2013 - August 30, 2021

A Certificate of Apprenticeship (CofA) is awarded to a person who has successfully completed a registered apprenticeship trade program, consisting of supervised on-the-job training which may be accompanied by course work or 'in-class' technical training. For the Asphalt Paving/Laydown Technician trade program, individuals who completed the program obtained both the Certificate of Apprenticeship and Certificate of Qualification.

A Certificate of Qualification (CofQ) is awarded to a person who has successfully completed a registered apprenticeship trade program, consisting of supervised on-the-job training which may be accompanied by course work or 'in-class' technical training. For the Asphalt Paving/Laydown Technician trade program, individuals who completed the program obtained both the Certificate of Apprenticeship and Certificate of Qualification.

Certificates of Qualification also include persons who have not completed a formal apprenticeship program but who have extensive experience working in their trades and pass the provincial/territorial exam in their trades. These persons, known as trade qualifiers, do not receive a Certificate of Apprenticeship.

The first Certificate of Qualification registered in this trade was awarded in 2013.
